

OPENS MONDAY

Long Debate on the Tariff in the Senate.

Six Weeks' Time Will Be Devoted to Discussion.

REPUBLICANS HAVE NO HOPE OF DEFEATING THE BILL.

The vote may be delayed under various pretexts—Voorhees will open the speech-making for the Democrats—Fair Plenary for Protection Invade the Capitol—They Come from New England Districts.

FARMINGTON, D. C., March 28.—The month of April will usher in the tariff debate in the Senate, and on Monday next the discussion of the amended Wilson bill will begin. Under good management on the part of the Democratic leaders it ought to be brought to a close in six weeks. The most sanguine of the revenue reformers, however, do not expect that result. They rather fear a repetition of the experience of last fall in the matter of the silver debate, when despite the fact that those Senators who were anxious for early action abstained from coming to the floor to talk, obstruction became the established policy, and it was only by a sort of "scratch" that a vote was finally secured. Senator Voorhees will open the discussion with a speech of about two hours in length, defining the Democratic party's position on the question as viewed by the majority of the committee. He will be followed by Senator Allison on behalf of the Republican members. Beyond this nothing is known as to the order of speeches on either side.

TO THE POST-DISPATCH correspondent to-day Senator Vest said that he did not know whether he would make a speech during the general discussion. Senator Jones will make no general speech at all, and Senator Harris is also doubtful as to whether he will do more than participate in the running debate without making a set speech. Senator Aldrich will probably withhold his speech until the close of the general debate and until just prior to the taking up of the schedules.

THE REPUBLICAN PROGRAMME. The Republican leaders disclaim any intention of resorting to systematic delay. Their programme as now given is, upon its face, fair and conservative. There is no report from them, properly so-called, on the Wilson bill. The motion to recommit, which it was thought at one time would be made at the outset of the debate, will probably be reserved until the debate has progressed to that extent, allowing the whole matter to be dealt with in detail of the Republican objection to the bill.

But as fair and as regular as this appears to be on its face it will be susceptible under the latitudinous rules of the Senate of most serious abuse, and of inflicting long delay on the bill. The occasion will call for a leader who will drive the coach steadily on, and who knows every foot of the parliamentary way. Excuses will be offered for Senators not ready to proceed. Notices will be given of speeches to be delivered days in advance. Attempts will be made to introduce side issues of various kinds, and many measures will be found to serve this obstructive purpose. The morning hour, which does not close until 2 o'clock, will be regularly consumed every day, so that no part of that time shall inure to the benefit of the tariff bill. And so the scheme will proceed, gathering strength constantly, and exhibiting all of the finesse of those who have contrived it and will have it in hand for thorough development.

These men are among the most capable and experienced in the Senate. Mr. Aldrich is at their head; and he will work not only from great pride in the display of his parliamentary skill, but in obedience to the commands of the protected industries of Rhode Island, whose accredited representative he is. He will push the courtesy of the Senate to the utmost verge of application, and take advantage of everything that may happen to add a single day to the project of staving off the final vote.

It is confessed here that the Republican leaders have no hope of seeing the Wilson bill defeated. They have canvassed all the different sides of the question, and after making all allowances for Democratic divisions on one thing and another, they are convinced that when the question is reduced to that of accepting the bill with some objectionable features, or passing no bill at all, the majority will unite and pass the bill.

The Republican programme, therefore, simply means delay. The delay is to be made the time between the passage of the bill and the November election as short as possible, in the hope that when the Congressional ballots are thrown the partisan denunciations of the Wilson bill will still be in force and effect.

It is not contended here that this programme, favored as it is by the rules of the Senate, can be easily circumvented. The mere resolution will not avail anything. There will be as much of that on one side as on the other. But it will be everything for the Democrats to be led with great skill as well as with spirit, and this calls for the presence in the van of the ablest parliamentarian on that side of the chamber.

PLEADERS FOR PROTECTION. An Amazonian platoon of sixteen hand-picked young women, representing various New England industries, and marshaled under the banner of "protection" by Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, charged upon the Senate wing of the Capitol yesterday and put to flight Senator Voorhees, Chairman of the Finance Committee, and compelled Senator Harris to

NEW STEEL MILL. A. J. Moxam and T. L. Johnson Looking for a Site at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., March 28.—A. J. Moxham, the President of the big steel company at Johnstown, Pa., and Hon. Tom L. Johnson, one of the heaviest stockholders, are in Cleveland seeking a site for a new steel mill, to cost about $2,000,000. The plant will be located within ten or fifteen miles of this city.

JUDGE CALDWELL'S ORDER. Victory Fragned for Bondholders of the National Waterworks Co.

OMAHA, Neb., March 28.—In the legal fight between the National Waterworks of Kansas City and its Eastern bondholders, involving $2,000,000, Judge Caldwell in the Federal Court here ordered the company to turn all its revenues into court moneys the amount necessary for actual expenses. The court promised to give a final decision in the case soon. The order is regarded as a precursor of a final victory for the bondholders. The case has been on two years.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS. The Government Bureaus Deluged With These Disrespectable Epistles.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Representative Piggott of Connecticut says concerning his bill introduced yesterday against anonymous letters: "The Government bureaus and apartments are deluged with these anonymous letters. They are aimed at the Pension Office in particular. Unscrupulous and spiteful persons write to the pension authorities concerning alleged frauds and crookedness in a neighbor's pension. An investigation may be made and the pensioner is put to much trouble, with the prospect of having his pension cut off without being able to face his anonymous accuser."

The same anonymous attacks are made against candidates for office. In one of the departments I found an anonymous letter against a candidate for a Federal appointment. The officials said they did not docket and brief these anonymous letters, but they filed them in a bunch to get them out of the way. So the anonymous letters are a hindrance to the candidate without an opportunity to face the accuser. I intend to follow up this bill and secure a law for the destruction of all such anonymous communications."

Of Interest to Publishers. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28.—The attention of the Post-office Department has been called to the fact that it is the practice of many publishers of second-class mail matter to omit one or two regular issues of the papers, and to subsequently get out another issue bearing the serial number of the one omitted. Violations of this rule will subject the publisher to treatment as third-class mail matter.

Experiment Stations in Alaska. WASHINGTON, March 28.—Among the appropriations pending before Congress there is provision for two agricultural experiment stations in Alaska, one at Sitka and the other in the valley of the Yukon river. When the subjects were taken up by the House Committee on Agriculture Representative Baker of New Hampshire made a brief speech in opposition to the project, regarding the proposed stations as useless on the ground that there is already no tillable land in the Territory. The question was not disposed of, and will be again considered.

Changes in Pension Surgeons. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28.—The personnel of almost three-fourths of the total number of the Board of Examining Surgeons of the Pension Bureau has been changed since the beginning of last May. An official statement shows that the total number of surgeons appointed since May 1 is 3,089. The total number of surgeons of the bureau is 4,107. The number of boards unchanged is 1,416. The average number of appointments per month during the period were 629.

The Gypsy Moth. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28.—Massachusetts has an insect pest for which Congress is asked to appropriate $100,000 to enable the Department of Agriculture to exterminate it. This pest is known as the gypsy moth, or gypsy moth. The bill asking the appropriation was introduced by Representative Cogswell of Massachusetts. Pending action it was referred to the Secretary of Agriculture with a request for any information the department may have regarding the moth.

Farmville Burning. LYNCHBURG, Va., March 28.—Farmville, a town of about 6,000 inhabitants, on the Norfolk & Western Railway, is burning. A telegraphic call for assistance has been received here.

DEPARTMENTS. The special Committee appointed to investigate the various day departments with a view of reducing salaries, failed to meet yesterday afternoon. It is not probable any report will be made at the session of the Assembly.

DONNELLA APPOINTED.

Belief That He Will Get McCullough's Place in the Secret Service Department.

Schuyler A. Donnelly has been appointed Secret Service Operator, and it is believed will take charge of this district, which was left vacant by the resignation of J. F. McCullough some weeks ago. There is a chance he may be appointed to Cincinnati, O. Mr. Donnelly has been in the Government Secret Service before, but more recently was proprietor of S. A. Donnelly & Co.'s saloon, 100 North Broadway. He has not yet received his commission and is not certain whether he has been appointed to St. Louis or Cincinnati, there being vacancies in each place.

Since the resignation of Mr. McCullough Assistant Operator N. Burns has had charge of the local office and it is not known whether his appointment would be made permanent, but since Mr. Donnelly's appointment has become known it is regarded as almost certain by Federal officials that he will be given charge of the local office.

LADLAW'S DAMAGE SUIT.

Lawyer Choate Makes a Pleading of Defendant on the Witness Stand.

New York, March 29.—In vulgar parlance, J. Joseph H. Choate "played horse" with millionaire Russell Sage yesterday when the lawyer was on the stand in the suit for damages against him brought by William R. Ladlaw, who involuntarily acted as Sage's aid against a bomb exploded in the latter's office by a clerk.

Mr. Sage swore positively that his hearing had been affected by the explosion. Mr. Choate smiled pleasantly. "Mr. Sage," he asked in a very low tone, "where do you reside?"

"At 66 Fifth avenue."

"And what is your age?" still in a very low tone.

"Seventy-seven years."

Then Mr. Choate shouted: "Do you ordinarily hear as well as you have heard the last two questions?"

The millionaire became much embarrassed, but he admitted he did not use to being put on the rack in this way, and he swung his eyes nervously.

"You wear glasses, I see," remarked Mr. Choate.

The millionaire slipped them into his pocket. "Not always," he said.

"And when you don't carry them in your vest pocket, do you remember whether your glasses were hurt when you received those forty-seven wounds in the chest you have told us about?"

Mr. Sage couldn't remember.

"If you had been obliged to buy a new pair you would have remembered, wouldn't you?"

This allusion to the defendant's peevishness was received with a burst of laughter, which only served to increase the witness' anger.

The only point of importance in Mr. Sage's testimony was that he swore he never put his hands on Ladlaw.

Escaped Justice Through Farjary.

This method of escaping justice is probably more frequent than is generally known, but something everybody knows is that the Globe, northwest corner Franklin avenue and Seventh street, 12 Derby and Federal have for 25 cents, 25 Derby and Federal, 25 boys' and children's Tam O'Shanter, 25 cents.

Frederick Bollier, the once famous Chief of Police of Zurich, Switzerland, who ten years ago was an important factor in European politics, lies prostrate and paralyzed in a miserable room at 257 West 14th street. He and his wife came to this country in 1888, his wife's sister, to take her husband's life, but it is also said that he was forced to flee to escape prosecution after a duel with a time broker was employed in the Recorder of Deeds' office, but has been sick and unable to work for over a year.

Col. Edwin Hatch had charge of all the arrangements and was highly commended.

Railroad News.

It's not to well-traveled people, but to others it may be news that the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railway (O. & M.) is the only line leaving St. Louis with solid vestibuled trains of Pullman dining, parlor and drawing-room sleeping-cars to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York via Washington. If you are going East, inquire at ticket office, 108 North Broadway.

Young Gallagher's Denial.

Frank Gallagher of 4715 Blair avenue, whose father swore out a warrant against him yesterday for assault and battery, says that he did not break his father's ribs last Friday night, as alleged, but only slapped him in self-defense and threw a stone at him when his father chased him from the house with a large knife. He denied positively ever stealing a cent from his father, or staying out at night and sleeping during the day. He says he spends the day attending to his fruit and vegetable business. Young Gallagher also declares that he never thought of taking his father out and getting him drunk. In fact Young Gallagher claims all his charges are false and that the police's drunkenness caused all the trouble and believes his father has since withdrawn the warrant.

Popular Styles . . . Backward Spring.

DRESS PATTERNS PRACTICALLY FREE.

Any one of these Demorest Dress Patterns will be sent to readers of the POST-DISPATCH if they cut out the coupon and send six (6) cents for each pattern to the POST-DISPATCH BOOK DEPT., 142 Worth Street, New York City.

Save this illustration and description to compare with the patterns when you receive them.

584—HELENA WRAP.

Sleeves, Medium and Large.

So long as large sleeves and full shoulders remain in vogue, a wrap that will not crush them and can be easily adjusted must continue in favor. The prettiest and most convenient, as well as becoming to all ages, is in a circle shape, short, with ample fullness, and trimmed with elaborate materials for these wraps, but they are quite as frequently made of cloth or cambric and are trimmed with white or black lace or ribbon, or some of the handsome passementeries or spangly goods. The Helena wrap is a circle, with a shawl collar, and the upper cape of changeable silk; the lower cape of changeable silk, with black and purple—both trimmed with jet passementerie. The skirt is made of silk, finished with jet and lace; but satin ribbon is quite as frequently used, although not so dressy as the scarf.

Half of the pattern is given in three pieces: Cape, shoulder-cape and collar. Lay the shoulder-cape in place, turned toward the back on the outside, according to the holes. Lay the back of the collar in place, turned toward the back on the outside, as indicated by the holes.

Cut the cape and shoulder-cape with their front edges placed lengthwise on the goods; and the collar, with the back edge placed on a lengthwise fold. Before cutting the goods be careful to read "Directions for Cutting," printed on the envelope.

585—GERALD BASQUE.

Sleeves, 34, 36, 38, and 40 Inches, Bust Measure.

Although very plain in effect as illustrated, this model is one of the most practical for traveling and general street wear it cannot be excelled. It is formed by the combination of the "Gerald" basque and "Osborne" skirt, and embodies several of the present day, the gored, moderately flaring skirt, the double-breasted basque, front with plain revers, and the chemise sette. The latter may be of velvet or any contrasting material, or a linen chemise with collar and cuffs, and rows of stitching for trimming; although any seasonal or woolen goods can be used with velvet or silk for the revers, and a tiny velvet or silk cord around the bottom of the skirt and all the edges of the basque. The basque can be worn with any style of skirt, but looks exceedingly well with the "Osborne" skirt, which is described below.

Half of the pattern is given in five pieces: Two pieces of the front, two collars, revers, and three pieces of the skirt. The row of holes in the chemise where it is to be turned back to form the outer revers, and also where the edge of the under revers is to be placed between the top of the outer piece of the skirt and the edge of the chemise.

Cut the front, side gorges, side forms, and back pieces lengthwise, and with the holes, with the collar and revers, and placed exactly crosswise on the goods; the collar bias, and the sleeves bias below the collar. Lay the skirt, very carefully to read "Directions for Cutting," printed on the envelope.

44 and 46 bust measure will require three and three-quarter yards of goods twenty-four inches wide.

38 and 40 bust measure will require four yards of goods twenty-four inches wide.

536—OSBORNE SKIRT.

Sleeves, Medium and Large.

This is a very popular and stylish skirt, cut with even gorges, thus affording desired fullness with a very graceful effect. It has a bias seam down the middle of the back. This skirt is very desirable for any of the popular woolen materials with any style of blouse or waist.

Half of the pattern is given in five pieces: Two pieces of the front, two collars, revers, and three pieces of the skirt. The row of holes in the chemise where it is to be turned back to form the outer revers, and also where the edge of the under revers is to be placed between the top of the outer piece of the skirt and the edge of the chemise.

Cut the front, side gorges, side forms, and back pieces lengthwise, and with the holes, with the collar and revers, and placed exactly crosswise on the goods; the collar bias, and the sleeves bias below the collar. Lay the skirt, very carefully to read "Directions for Cutting," printed on the envelope.

44 and 46 bust measure will require three and three-quarter yards of goods twenty-four inches wide.

38 and 40 bust measure will require four yards of goods twenty-four inches wide.
